The Quinault Indian Nation is a very sacred part of the identity at Quinault Beach Resort and Casino; we are proud to be an enterprise of the Nation. The Quinault Indian Nation is comprised of over 2800 members of the Quinault, Queets, Hoh, Quilieute, Chehalis, Cowlitz, and Chinook tribes. The 208,150-acre reservation is pure in its wild coastline, unspoiled lakes, raging rivers, and pristine wilderness. It is also home to one of the largest conifer-producing forest in America. The members of the QIN want to share their heritage and special gifts with you. You are invited to visit the reservation and have an Indian guide take you and your family on a fishing trip on their sacred waters. Take a guided tour of the untouched coastal beaches and learn about the native birds and mammals from tribal members who truly know the land. Or, simply visit the cultural center in Taholah. The Quinault Indian Reservation is a must-see to gain a true Washington State experience from those who were here first.
